

CELEBRATING CANADA'S 150TH

Commemorative $10 bank note (2017)

The Canada 150 note has a number of security features—some new and others that are similar to the features on the current series of polymer notes.

Feel, Look and Flip is a phrase that reminds you how to check the security features on this note.

- 1 Raised ink
Feel the raised ink on both sides of the note.
Front: on the large number, four portraits and the word "Canada"
Back: on the four vertical landscape panels and the text "Canada 1867–2017"

- 2 Colour-shifting arch
Look at the checkered pattern in the arch.
Tilt the note to see the pattern move up and down and shift from green to blue.

- 3 Large window
Look for transparency through the large window containing metallic symbols and images. Flip the note to see the metallic elements in the large window repeated in the same colours and detail on the other side.
- 4 Metallic symbols and images
Look at the details in the coat of arms, Canadian flag and the owl. Tilt the note to see sharp colour changes in these metallic elements.

- 5 3D maple leaves
Look at the three-dimensional maple leaves that appear to be raised. Feel them to confirm that the surface is actually flat.
