

A Historic Reign

COMMEMORATIVE $20 NOTE (2015)

The commemorative $20 note has all the same security features as the notes in the current Polymer series. The difference is that the large window contains new visual elements.

1. Metallic portrait

Look at the details of the metallic portrait in the large window. It does not match the large portrait, unlike all other genuine polymer notes. The metallic portrait is of Queen Elizabeth II in 1951.

Tilt the note to see subtle colour changes in the metallic portrait.

2. Metallic symbols

Look at the details in the metallic symbols in the large window.

Tilt the note to see sharp colour changes in the crown, text and maple leaves.

3. Small text

Look at the text in the large window. "A HISTORIC REIGN • UN RÈGNE HISTORIQUE" is repeated and sometimes appears in reverse.

4. Transparent maple leaves

Look at the maple leaves in the centre of the large window. They are transparent and feel slightly raised.

Flip the note to see the metallic images from the front repeated in the same colours and detail on the back.

All other notes in the Polymer series have the same security features.
